Dedication

During Robert D. Wallen's twelve years as principal the entire history of education in the United States has undergone its most turbulent period, with changes in every field.

Great growth has marked his years as principal with the emergence of a new full four year high school. That Frankenmuth has a fine progressive curriculum is due to his efforts, and understanding of trends taking place. In the material offered students there is never a feeling that this is a class C school.

Mr. Wallen served with the Air Force during World War II, and graduated from Central Michigan University in 1950, coming to Frankenmuth to teach in the secondary school. Later he received his Masters degree in education from the University of Michigan. He broke his years as principal to return to the University of Michigan in 1953.

It is with regret of both faculty and students that "the principal" leaves here to become Administrative Assistant for the St. Joseph Schools. As this he will be affiliated with Richard Zeihmer, former superintendent of schools here. Mr. Wallen stated that "though he was leaving here he would consider Frankenmuth his home."

As representatives of the faculty and student body we, the yearbook staff, dedicate this, the 1966 yearbook, as partial recognition of the debt we owe Mr. Wallen.

ACADEMICS

the roots of education

Old and New Worlds Explored...

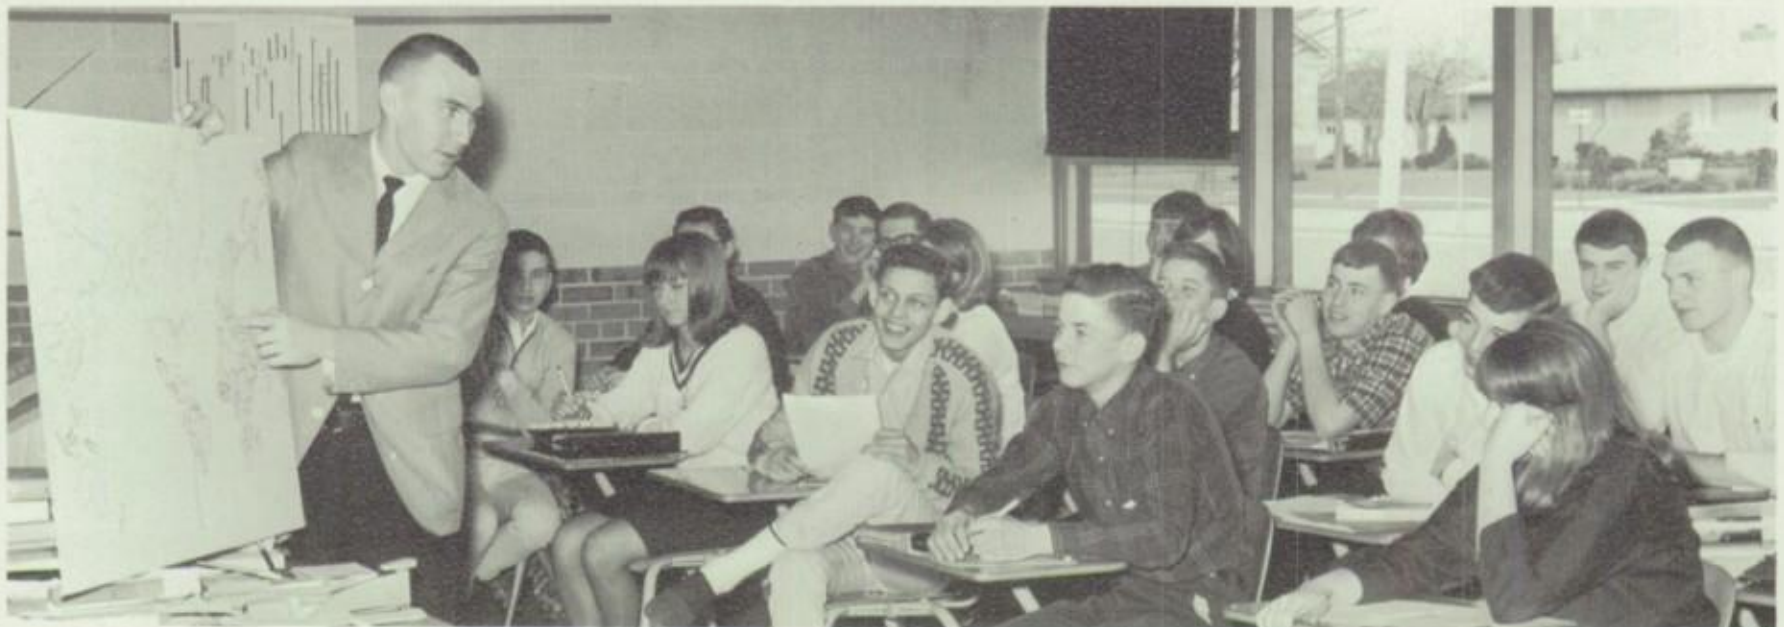

Two years of social science are required for each student during the four years of high school, showing the timely importance of this field. Both the present and the past world's situations are covered by history, government, and world affairs. For the first time, William Webster teaches both American history and government to the upperclassmen, while Warren Wilson instructs only the juniors in government and history. In world affairs the sophomores learn about such things as foreign aid, the growing United Nations, and the cold war from instructor James Drummond.

Due to their remarkable interest in Latin American history, these senior girls are listening intently to the words of their instructor, William Webster.

William Webster points to the leading figures of the present session of Congress.

This world affairs class is discussing Poland in relation to world policy under the guidance of Earl Fisher, student teacher.

Test Tubes, Slide

John Hammond and Bob Zeilinger demonstrate the precessional qualities of a spinning wheel in Physics.

Becky Schutt and Kris Muehfeld daintily dissect a dead pig in Biology I.

Dave Gehrs, Dan Meyer, and Ike Bleke are fascinated by the experiment performed by Bob Zeilinger and Don Kaczynski in Biology II.

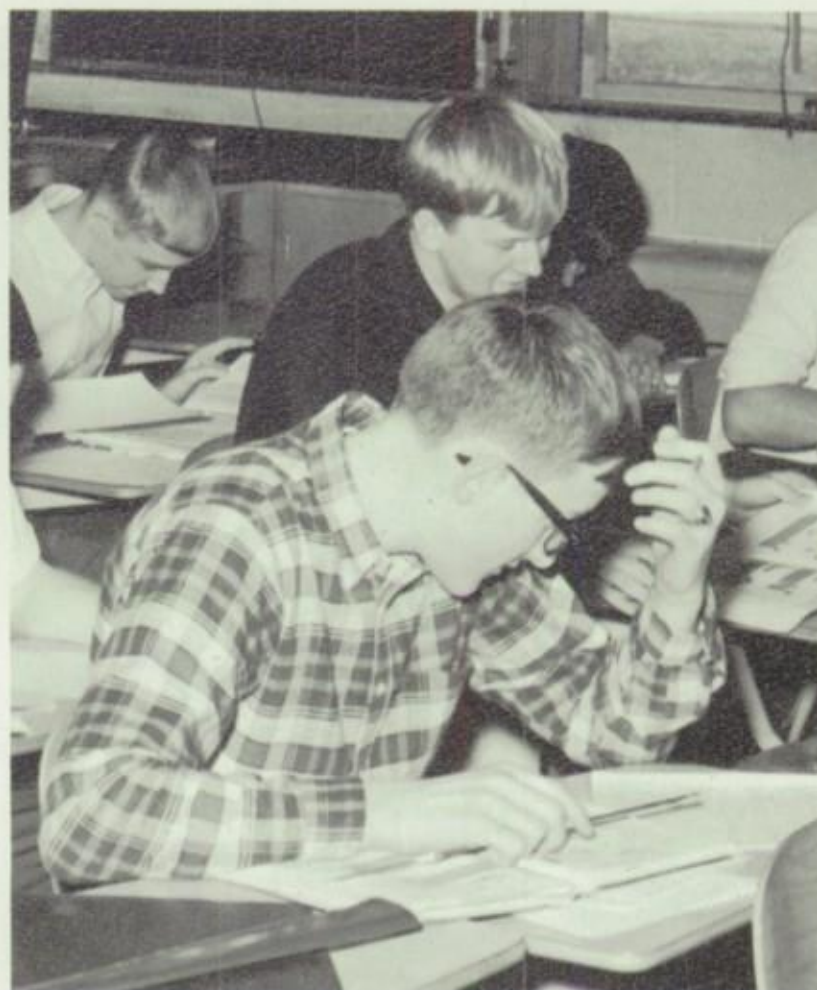

Rules Open

New Vistas

Under the qualified supervision of four excellent teachers, the science and math departments have proved to be a very important part of the curriculum at Frankenmuth High School.

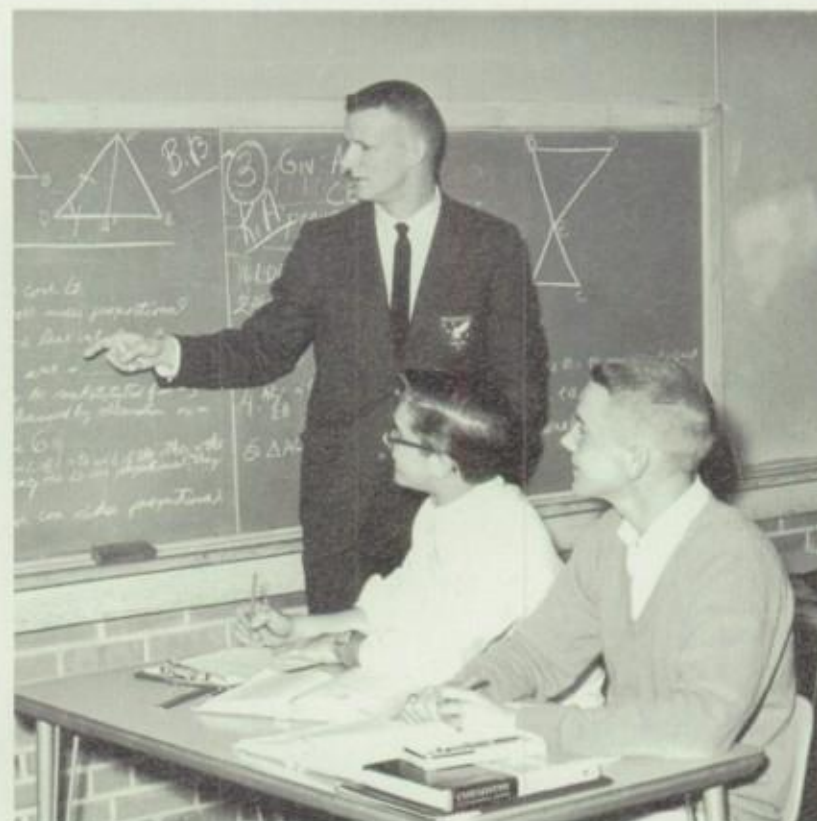

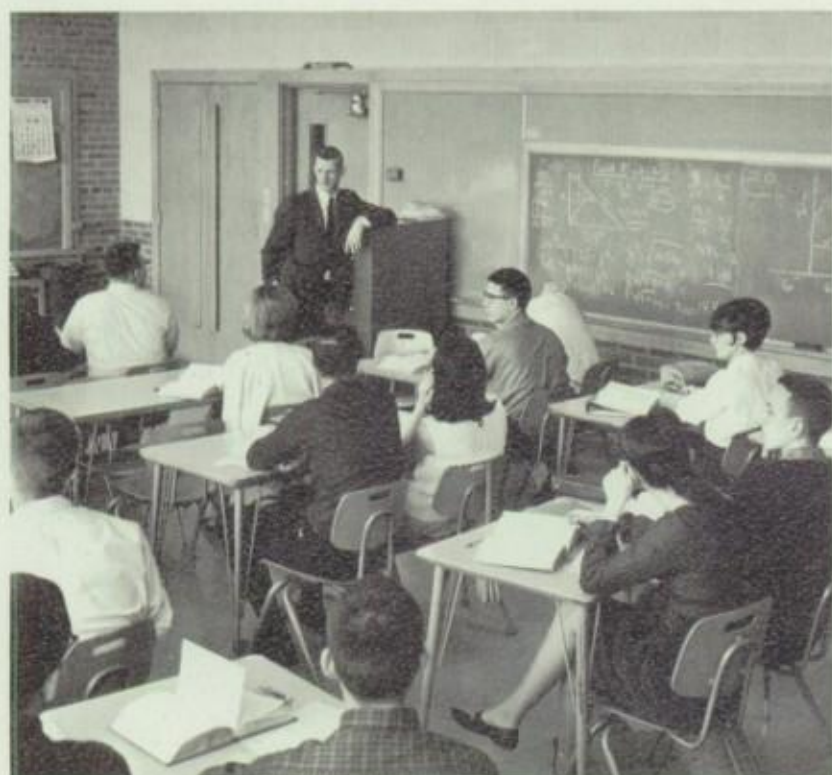

In science, headed by John Venstra, courses in chemistry and physics were offered along with a new course of Applied Chemistry and Physics. Nancy LaBeau taught Biology I and another new course Biology II where emphasis was placed on individual experimentation and discovery.

The mathematics department consisted of classes in Algebra I and II and Advanced Math taught by Wayne Seiffert. Warren Wilson instructed students in Geometry and Basic Math while Mr. Veenstra taught one section of Algebra I.

"Hmm-m, now let me think," says Ken Kueffner as he attempts to solve a chemistry problem with the aid of his slide rule.

Geometry instructor Warren Wilson explains a difficult problem to his interested class.

Listening attentively, James Bartels and Bill Bradford absorb the many complicated steps of the geometry theorem, Mr. Warren Wilson ably explains.

Physical Fitness is Ability, Agility

Mrs. Sharon Barrett led the girls in her physical education class to many new and interesting phases of physical training. Field hockey was the major activity in the fall until the coming of colder weather forced the girls indoors. A unit of volleyball and basketball was then begun, followed by a modern dance period. In the dance unit, the girls were introduced to some of the basic concepts and movements involved in this relatively new field. A six-week study of free-exercise followed, combined with exercises for posture and improvement. As the weather became warmer, the girls enjoyed tennis and track and field.

During the year, physical education teacher, Harold Kaczynski works his boys hard for the rigid spring physical fitness tests. This is not, however, his main goal. Throughout the year each boy has a chance to advance in his favorite skill. The class games include touch football, basketball, kick-ball, weight lifting, shuffle board, ping pong, and other various physical activities.

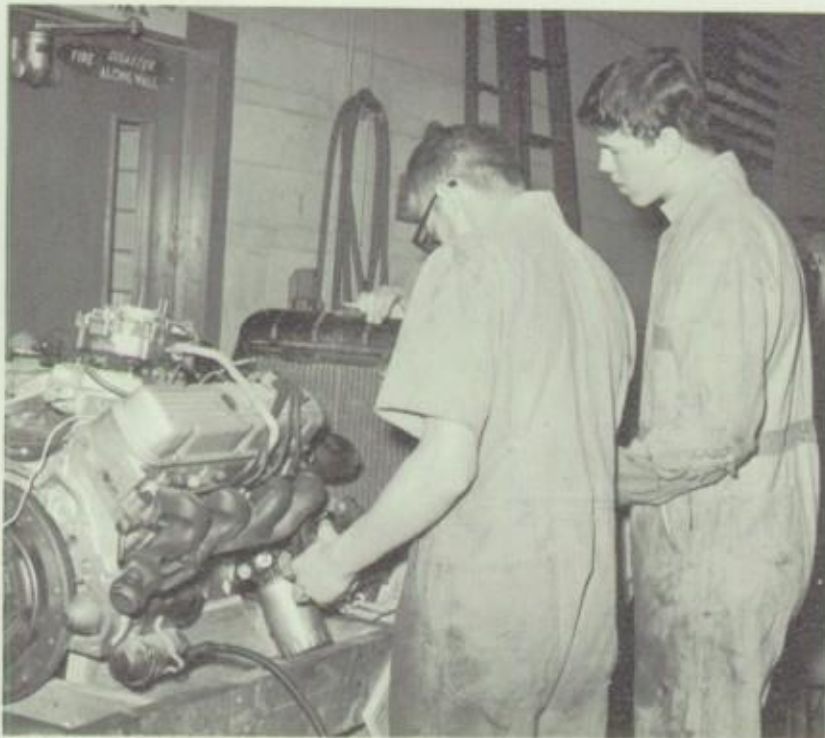

A favorite game in the boys' physical education class is demonstrated by these students as they whip the ball at each other during a wild dodgeball game.

Ever since the tennis courts were built in the park, tennis has been one of the many sports pursued in the spring physical education classes. Here Sandy Travis and Tom Reif leave the gym after challenging each other to a match. As they run down the hills and arrive at the courts, Tom plays the gentleman and opens the gate for Sandy. However, once the game has begun it's every man, or woman, for himself!

Industrial Arts Generate Skills

Auto Mechanics Class students spend most of their class time working with cars. Work on engines or any other part of a car needing attention is performed. In addition to auto repairs, some of the boys have built a Bavarian pretzel stand for the Rotary Club.

Brian Bickel and Bob Piesko give this V-8 engine a tune-up job to get it working properly.

Shop students do a great variety of things. Their main concern is building, but projects such as refinishing furniture are also worked on. Several interesting items have been made by the class this year. Among these are: four boats, a surfboard, a picnic table, several bird houses, a gun cabinet, and many other useful and interesting items.

Determined to do a good job, Floyd Braeutigam operates a lathe in shop class.

Ken Block and Bob Frank watch as Warren Naber shows Jim VanWormer the proper method of making house plans in Mechanical Drawing I.

The Mechanical Drawing classes are taught by Warren Naber. The drafting student starts by learning the basics of drawing, such as lettering or symbols, and continues to progress until he can successfully complete house plans, or other more complicated drawings. The pupil learns to correctly use the many pieces of drawing equipment which are needed to make an accurate drawing. Two new drawing boards were added to the classroom this year.

Art Emphasizes Creative Expression

An interesting phase of art work is pursued by Gilbert Kern, Bruce Daenzer, Tim Daenzer, Mike Rausch, and Betty Heinlein as they refinish old furniture to make it attractive again.

Art student, Ray Borchard, explains the process of copper enameling to Mrs. Elmer Simon, Elizabeth, and Dave Simon.

Outside art activities are always popular. Here Diane Rupprecht poses in a swing as Gary Koehler, Brian Ferguson, and Linda Schlegal practice their sketching skill.

Constantly on the call for the making of decorations, posters, and programs are the students of the first year art class. This past year the art students learned a variety of techniques of water color, chalk, charcoal, paper mache, and silkscreening. Copper enameling and refinishing and repairing of furniture were added to the ever expanding program. Each year the students show the tremendous area of learning that has been covered in one year by putting on an art exhibit for the public, directed by Mrs. Margret Y. Willis, instructor.

Art students Richard Lindow and Brian Ferguson glaze enameled jewelry they have made before they fire it in the kiln.

Musical Talents

Tune in Fun

The active Frankenmuth High School Band has had a busy schedule this year, under the direction of James VanDevelde. In addition to entertaining at halftime performances, both on the home field and away, during the football season, they have been to the Solo Festival, Band Festival, Halloween Parade, Christmas and Spring Concerts, Memorial Day Parade, Bavarian Parade, and finally their big trip to the Holland Tulip Festival.

Band officers are Mark Goldammer, vice-president, and Dave Simon, president.

BAVARIAN BAND: Lynn Fischhaber, Paul Wenzloff, John Eaton, Danny Poelet, Becky Schutt, George Frahm.

Director James VanDevelde listens for tone quality as the band practices for its annual Spring Concert.

Amateur Authors

Delighting Mrs. Willis' Ancient Literature class with a selection from "Grimm's Fairy Tales" is Mark DeYoung.

Expansion and change characterized Frankenmuth High School's English Department this year. For the first time, English courses were offered in one semester classes for juniors and seniors instead of the usual full-year course.

Two writing classes, research and creative, taught students to express themselves in many different forms through term papers, a city survey, journals, profiles, and themes. The other four classes, English, Ancient, and World Literature, and Fiction, dealt with various types of literature and authors from Robert Browning and Homer's Odyssey, to Cervante's Don Quiote through The Mouse That Roared.

A real aid to all the English courses was the presentation of Shakespeare's Hamlet by the Michigan State University Performing Artists. The play was sponsored by the Student Council and because of its wonderful reception another one will probably be brought back next year.

Research Writing students, Ken Weiss and Diane Rupprecht, record the employment statistics Ruth Abraham is reading as they complete part of the survey of Frankenmuth which the class made.

Inspired by Language Arts

Polonius tells King Claudius and Queen Gertrude of the love his daughter Ophelia possesses for their son Hamlet.

Ophelia is somewhat perturbed by her father's forward remarks.

Laertes receives advice from his father Polonius upon his return from school in Wittenburg.

Hamlet mourns his father's death and despairs over the unjust treatment shown to him.

A Little of Old Bavaria

in the Classroom

As his fourth hour, German I class reads a thrilling adventure story in their Deutsch books, James Weber adds a great deal to the action by doing some acting of his own.

Field trips and a German II excursion to the University of Michigan campus helped conclude a year of hard work and some fun for five German classes.

This year besides the two German I classes and the German II class, two Conversational German courses were offered for the first time. James Weber's German I and II classes were primarily concerned with the learning of German grammar and vocabulary. His Conversational German classes were familiarized with the spoken German language.

"Ist das nicht ein krum und grad?" asks Mr. James Weber. Singing the "Schnitzelbank" is a favorite of the Conversational German students.

Research, Jitters, Satisfaction Are Typical of Speech

Under the direction of Marvin Hauck, the Speech department consists of speech I and II. Here students attempt to develop their speaking abilities that they may talk more freely as well as more intelligently in front of a group.

While Speech I concentrates on the general, basic aspects such as parliamentary procedure, logic, discussion, and debate, Speech II deals mainly with advanced techniques in public speaking.

Besides participating in various other classroom activities, first year students give several informative, persuasive, and demonstrative speeches. In this way their stage fright is usually lessened to some degree.

The People vs. Maxine Lowe and a Batman movie are only two of many projects completed by the Speech II class. Radio broadcasting and forensics were some of the other areas covered by these pupils.

Gary Conzelmann presents the negative case in a Speech I debate concerning Viet Nam. Dave Schmitzer and Doug Worley prepare their rebuttal speeches as Marvin Hauck judges the proceedings.

By the looks on the girls' faces, Barb Rupprecht's introduction must have been funny.

The Group in the corner is presenting a radio serial while the announcer watches the time, ready with the next commercial.

With an Eye to the Future

One of the electives offered at Frankenmuth High School is the three year homemaking classes instructed by Mrs. Mary Lou Zehnder. The members of these classes learned about canning, cooking, and meat products. A yearly requirement of the course is to make a suit, dress, or jumper and model their fashions at a spring Tea presented by the girls.

Each year a Betty Crocker Homemaking Award is given to the senior girl with the most outstanding knowledge of home economics. Elizabeth Zehnder was the recipient of the award this year.

Joy Lier seems engrossed in her work as she measures the hem of Jennie Elliot's dress.

Home economic assistant, Barb Rummel, puts the finishing touches on her monthly bulletin board.

Freshmen Lynn Crary and Lynn Wiltse learn the fundamentals of color in their first year home economics class before choosing the fabric for their first sewing project.

Learning to co-ordinate their finger movements with the typewriter keys are Randy Merten, Melvin Braeutigam, and Joel Butterfield.

Machines, Practice, and Business Terms

Students who are ready to face the business world alone will be lost without some knowledge of business methods. Louie Weiss, Charles Bartel, and Marco Marcet help their students prepare for the future.

In Typing I and II students become well acquainted with the different forms of letters and the proper way of organizing manuscripts. Office Practice and Bookkeeping offers experience in the secretarial field. Law and business terms are discussed in General Business and Business Law. In this day of law suits it is important to know just what rights and obligations a person has.

With their minds intently on their work, seniors Carol Schaefer, Janine Waack, and Marlene Sparks operate these Office Practice machines.

Kathy Rivett, a co-operative training student at Satow Drug Store, makes change under the approving eyes of Harry Boesenecker.

Library Shows

Growth

With new collection purchases this year the number of books, in the library, nears 6,000. There are books for research, reports and, pure enjoyment. The library is open before school and during noon hour to all students. Mrs. Judy Maier, the head librarian, is there to keep order and help students find the material they need. Every hour, co-op students help to check out books and put others back on the shelves.

LIBRARY ASSISTANTS: Dianne Schmitzer, Virginia Roedel, Jean Wenzel, Lois Reinhardt, Janine Waack, Marlene Sparks, and Karin Schroeder.

Preparing a new exhibit for the library showcase are librarian Judith Maier assisted by extern teacher, Lottie Collins.

Always popular, the library is a busy place for studying, research, and discussion, as indicated by these seniors; Dave Gehrs, Dave Meyer, and Sandy Waack.

Helpers Smooth the Way...

COUNSELOR'S ASSISTANTS: Gisela Leprich, Betty Heinlein, Andrea Girardot, Pat Reif, Sue Finkbeiner, Nancy Conzelmann, and Dave Meyer.

PRINCIPAL'S ASSISTANTS: Mrs. Charlotte Worley, secretary, Janice Hartman, Marilyn Lauber, Betty Erndt, co-op student, Kathy Braeutigam, Pat Bluemlein, and Donna Krueger.

SUPERINTENDENT'S ASSISTANTS: Sally Kronkowski, Barb Bernthal, co-op student, Shirley Schmitzer, Joan Bauer, and Kathy Rivett.

Mrs. Catherine Lee, Superintendent Jerold McEwen's able secretary, is seen engrossed in the duties her job requires.

ADMINISTRATION AND FACULTY...

The Guides of Education

The competent men who compose our Board of Education form the main trunk of our educational tree. It is they who make the final determination of courses to be offered, what and where funds are appropriated, and approve any additions to our faculty. Our Board of Education is an important and influential part of our school life.

As leaves are supported by branches, so the faculty of Frankenmuth High School gives the student body a knowledge upon which to grow educationally. Many fields of thought are represented, with each teacher having at least a bachelor's degree. The branches of education, the faculty, are strong and well qualified as a source.

Student-Administration Co-Operation

Student government is a vital part of any high school and the Frankenmuth Student Council again proved to be a valuable organization. Under the direction of President Bob Zeilinger and Vice-President Dave Simon and with the guidance of advisors Charles Bartel and James Drummond, the Council experienced a very successful year.

Since the Student Council had been operating under an outdated constitution, a committee was formed to draft a new one. One major change provided for student body candidates to run on a ticket. The new constitution was received with enthusiasm by the student body who ratified it in time to have the new election system used for next year's officers.

Another major project brought some culture to the halls of Frankenmuth High School. Hamlet, by William Shakespeare, was presented by the Michigan State University Performing Artists under the sponsorship of the Student Council. The play was very well attended by Frankenmuth students and others from the surrounding area schools. With proceeds from tickets the Council purchased a mini-trap for the cheerleaders and physical education department.

Members of the Council closed this eventful year by organizing and attending the Thumb B Student Council picnic held at Frankenmuth Memorial Park.

. . Student Council

Able leaders of the 1966 Student Council were Dave Simon, vice-president and Bob Zeilinger, president.

Girls Active in Sports

In an attempt to introduce an entirely different activity, the Girl's Athletic Association, under the guidance of Mrs. Barrett, sponsored a girl's track meet. This competition attracted enthusiasts from four area schools. The girls participated in ten events with the home team placing first in totals. Other activities were also enjoyed. Trips to a University of Michigan football game and a Michigan State University basketball game attracted many supporters. As is traditional, girl's intramural volleyball and bowling were offered. Touch football was another new activity. Those who actively supported GAA through the year were awarded at the annual Awards Banquet. It was at this time that Pat Reif, president, Janet Bender, vice-president, Kathy Krumnauer, secretary, and Carolyn Goldammer, treasurer, passed their responsibilities on to the new officers.

GAA members and their mothers actively participate in a volleyball game on Mother's Play Night.

Y-Teens...A Service Club

Being a member of the Young Womens Christian Association is offered to any high school girl in the form of Y-Teens. This service club meets after school hours and has conducted various projects. Under the direction of Kris Muehlfeld, president, Becky Schutt, vice-president, Mary Weiss, secretary, and Lois Fischhaber, treasurer; the club has sponsored a dance, gone to Delta College, and enjoyed a swimming party at the new Y.W.C.A. Three of the girls attended a district, mid-winter conference at Clear Lake in February and brought back ideas to help aid their club.

Beth Hurford, Lois Fischhaber, Kris Muehlfeld, and Debbie Boike discuss Lois' plans for her upcoming vacation at a Y-Teens camp.

Debates, Forensics are Challenging,

Three outstanding new trophies which now grace the trophy case can be attributed to the Varsity Debate team. These skilled speakers captured both second place in the Lower "B" Debate League and second place in classes C and D in the state.

Nineteen individuals were attracted to this meaningful field of endeavor. As the season passed they learned through experience and the expert guidance of the coaches, Marvin Hauck and James Drummond. Quick thinking and clear expression were acquired and the knowledge gained here will prove invaluable in future debates and in any speaking engagements.

A precedent has been set by these capable students, one which will be difficult to surpass.

STATE DEBATERS: Bill Rustem, Becky Schutt, James Drummond, coach, with the class C-D divisions championship trophy, Kathy Geyer, and John Eaton.

Interesting

Five students participated in the local American Legion Oratorical Contest. This contest, which was open to the public, was held in the library of Frankenmuth High School on February 13.

Legion Post 150 sponsored the program and offered cash prizes ranging from two to ten dollars to contestants.

Thirteen enthusiastic students were attracted to the annual forensics contest held in the spring. These eager individuals participated in the various fields of declamation, girls' and boys' extemporaneous speaking, interpretative and humorous reading and original oration. Those who captured either one of the first two places in each event continued to the district contest. Jerry Schreiner, humorous reader, and John Eaton, original orator, succeeded at this level.

Group reading participants are Sandy Waack, Pat Reif, Jane Heinlein, Brian Bickel, and Dave Simon, who read an excerpt from "My Fair Lady."

American Legion Oratorical Contest winner, Pat Reif, relates to others what the United States Constitution means to her.

Interests Vary Greatly in Clubs

"The voice of WFHS welcomes you..." This familiar sound is heard weekly during the activity period when the Radio Club meets. Its twelve members learn the fundamentals of setting up a radio station. Under the direction of their advisor, Marvin Hauck, the club conducts an hour-long broadcast featuring a live DJ show, commercials, and special interest programs. When the group is not on the air, they play their favorite records.

As they operate the controls during a rehearsal broadcast, Dave Morley and Don Mayer gain valuable experience in the radio field.

Bob Block receives valuable assistance from Steve Szymanski as he works industriously beneath this vehicle.

President Richard Lindow states that the main purpose of the Auto Club is to "cultivate our minds mechanically." Richard, Vice-President, Mark Goldammer, Secretary-Treasurer, Paul Rau, and the remaining twenty-one members fulfill their purpose as they meet weekly during the activity period. Washing cars, working on automobile bodies, and repairing faulty engines are among the many opportunities of this popular organization.

FUTURE HOMEMAKERS OF AMERICA — SEATED: Opal Hauck, Cathy Dietzel, Patty Sheppard, Helen Palmreuter, Beverly Palmreuter, Andrea Zoellner, Dianne Haubenstricker. STANDING: Margaret Sohn, Vicky Bickel, Janet Newbold, Mrs. Mary Lou Zehnder, advisor, Ruth Honald, Barb Rodammer, and Lauren Finger.

Education, Enjoyment Typical

The Future Homemakers of America have many interesting projects including making gifts for rest home patients. Mary Lou Zehnder, advisor, notes that the over all goal of the F.H.A. is to help individuals improve personal, family, and community living, now and in the future. The officers, Helen Palmreuter, president, Beverly Palmreuter, vice-president, Andrea Zoellner, secretary, Sheilla Gilbert, treasurer, and fifteen members have participated in the District and Regional Conventions. A spring banquet was also attended.

All is quiet at the eastern end of the school when the two chess groups meet during activity period. John Veenstra and Wayne Seiffert sponsor these identical clubs which are designed to increase the members' skills in playing chess. Don Duff, through much concentration, chalked up a perfect 7-0 record to win the tournaments sponsored by John Veenstra.

Concentration pays off in the game of chess as these players, Gary Lorenz, Richard Dankert, Bill Bradford, and Dennis Zuercher, can assure anyone.

Clubs Embrace Fish, Cards,

"Try bidding four hearts," whispers Warren Wilson as Louie Weiss points out a counter-plan to the opposition.

"Would you believe we had a tremendous year? Would you believe a great year? Well---how about a year." One year is hardly enough time to learn all there is to know about bridge. This belief is aptly expressed by Warren Wilson, advisor. He and Louie Weiss taught thirty enthusiastic students the fundamentals of this difficult game.

Bridge, which requires much thought, proved to keep the members eagerly participating. It also created popular advisors as their skills and experience were sought by confused students.

Euchre proved to be one of the more popularly accepted clubs. Under the direction of James Weber and Norman Richter, the members used and improved their card skills. The hour was hectic, exciting, and fun for all, with two possible exceptions--the advisors.

Norman Richter appears to be giving hand signals to the boisterous players across the table during a euchre game.

Euchre, the most popular club of the activity period, provides fun and relaxation for a large number of students.

And Paper

Checking the water temperature of the aquarium is Gary Daenzer, as Dennis Bierlein, Larry Eckert, Phil Zoellner observe under the supervision of William Webster.

Taking care of tropical fish can be an enjoyable as well as a worthwhile project as any member of William Webster's fish club can testify. Besides meeting each Wednesday during activity period the boys have taken a field trip for additional information.

After a few years of non-publication, the Eagle Echo was issued for four months before Christmas only to disband again from lack of student support. The inexperienced staff of ten members was headed by Margaret Y. Willis, advisor, Randy Hart, editor, Elizabeth Zehnder, co-editor, Fred Schellhas, make-up manager, Rod Merten, business manager, and Mary Engelhardt, circulation publication manager. The newspaper also received much help from the Creative Writing classes for which they were grateful.

EAGLE ECHO STAFF: Mary Engelhardt, Paul Shippey, Mrs. Margaret Y. Willis, advisor, Karen Bernthal, Rod Merten, Randy Hart, Fred Schellhas, Elizabeth Zehnder, Anne Roedel, Chris Stromer, and Joyce Landskroner.

Knit Two, Perl Two,

Drop Two

A beginning knitter displays the art of concentration to keep from dropping a stitch.

Again this year, knitting has been one of the interesting activities. During activity period every Wednesday afternoon, many avid knitters gather in the library to turn out splendid sweaters, socks, mittens, and scarves. Under the expert supervision of Mrs. Maier, their sponsor, the girls have learned the basic fundamentals.

Becky Creger's knitting instructions require additional advice and information from experienced knitter and advisor, Mrs. Judith Maier.

Ardently working in sewing club, Gloria Haubenstricker has threaded her machine and is ready to create something new.

Tenth Year

For Krazy

Karnival Fun

An atmosphere of gaiety and excitement characterized the very successful, junior sponsored, Krazy Karnival, as children and adults thronged to the event to take part in the many activities. The pie-throw was the center of attention as some of the teachers even got to bomb a few of their favorite students. As always the cake walk proved to be popular with a constant stream of hungry children. Loyal supporters gathered funds for their favorite candidates as the king and queen contest drew to a close. Probably the most long awaited event of the evening were the prize-drawings as people of all ages received prizes for holding a winning number.

Krazy Karnival King, Steve List and Queen, Nancy Voorheis reigned over the annual Junior fund-raising project.

KING AND QUEEN CANDIDATES — STANDING: Bob Piesko and Sue Finkbeiner (missing), Jean Loesel and Bob Baker, and Lynn Crary and Kerry Goodwin. SEATED: Nancy Voorheis and Steve List.

Show Brings Out Talent...

Applause and laughter separated the well-received acts of the ever popular, school talent show. This annual program, enjoyed by all, has a dual purpose. It provides an opportunity for skilled amateurs to perform before a responsive audience, and also supplies the student body with an interesting assembly.

As in the past, those who captured the first three positions traveled to other Thumb "B" schools where they experienced similar success.

Scottish lass, Ellen Allardyce, displays her heritage in a bonnie dance which requires her to step lightly between the shafts of two swords.

Pat Reif, Sandy Waack, Nancy Voorheis and Kay Heganauer captured first place with their modern dance routine.

"Fasten your lap strap" advise Janice Hartman and Jane Heinlein during one of their witty commercials.

Third place winners, Ruth Bauer and Karen Zeilinger, perform their well-organized baton routine.

"One Foot In Heaven..."

Sponsored by the senior class and directed by Mr. Norman Richter, this year's play was entitled One Foot In Heaven by Hartzell Spence.

The play dealt with a Methodist minister, Reverend William Spence, and his family moving into a new town. While getting situated in the old dilapidated parish, the experiences they encountered were humorous as well as a test of their faith and endurance. By their actions, many of the parishioners displayed that they were not quite as Christain as they had built themselves up to be.

However, through his ingenuity and determination, Reverend Spence reformed almost his entire congregation.

Reverend Spence, alias Ken Weiss, stares in disbelief as Major Cooper, Brian Bickel, tells of his prejudiced feelings, while Mrs. Sandow, Sandy Waack, his partner in conspiracy looks on in complete agreement.

Reverend and Mrs. Spence, Ken Weiss and Katy Deterding, are hoping that Dr. Romer's plans for the new church and parsonage will become a reality.

"Don't touch it, it might have fleas," warns Katy Deterding as her family, Ken Weiss, Fred Wenzel, and Jane Heinlein, complains about the horrible condition of the parsonage.

Students Receive a High Honor

Leadership, scholarship, character, and service to school and community are the high qualities these students must possess in order to be voted a member of the Alfred Zink Chapter of the National Honor Society.

The only sponsored activity of the National Honor Society was a formal banquet in honor of both the members and their parents.

Enjoying the meal at the National Honor Society banquet are Alfred Zink, Pearl Zink, Hilbert List, Steve List, James Drummond, Bill Bradford, Mrs. Bradford, and Stuart Bradford.

Externs Gain Teaching Experience

Douglas Bissel and John Donowski take time out from their busy schedule to pose in the library.

John Donowski and Douglas Bissel were the first of three sets of student teachers from Central Michigan University who interned at Frankenmuth High School this year. Mr. Donowski worked with William Webster and James Drummond in history and World Affairs, while Mr. Bissel was in mathematics under Wayne Seiffert and Warren Wilson.

Student librarian, Lottie Collins, shows Earl Fischer one of the many new additions to the library.

During the last marking period of the second semester, Albert Hass and Mrs. Jean Thayer were externs in the commercial studies and math section respectively. Both students came from Central Michigan University where they plan to continue their educations. Gaining actual teaching experience is part of the college program.

Mrs. Jean Thayer and Albert Hass discuss study plans for the coming school day.

AN ALBUM

Pictures for Memories

of Class of 1966

SENIOR CLASS OFFICERS: Mark Marcet, vice-president, Sue Nuechterlein, treasurer, Ken Weiss, president, and Jean List, secretary.

CLASS MOTTO: "With eyes to the future, we have memories of the past."

CLASS COLORS: Forest Green and Silver

CLASS FLOWER: Red Rose

CLASS SONG: "Climb Every Mountain"

On June 9 the Class of '66 completed four pleasant and active years of schooling at Frankenmuth High School. For the graduates this day brought back memories of those four successful years, probably some of the most important years of their lives. But of all these years, the senior year will be the one most well remembered.

Recalling their last year at Frankenmuth High School, the seniors have much to be proud of. In athletics the seniors played a major role in grasping a perfect football record and an exceptional record in basketball, as well as obtaining the school's first conference track championship. In scholarship, the Class of '66 set another first. Two outstanding seniors, Reinie Frank and Katy Deterding were selected as Frankenmuth High School's first co-valedictorians.

This year the class-as-a-whole acted in and presented the play One Foot In Heaven as their major project. Together with class dues and the money they made by sponsoring the play, the seniors financed a fine class trip and prepared for graduation.

Boblo Beckons Seniors

The day was June 1, 1966, which brought to life, the goal the Seniors had long planned and worked hard for.

The seniors began their class trip early Wednesday morning by taking a bus to Detroit, where they boarded a boat to Boblo Island. After returning from Boblo, they ate an evening meal at the enchanting, Cantonese restaurant, "Forbidden City." The meal was followed by an unusual cinerama presentation.

Whiling away the time on the long bus ride by playing cards are members of the senior class.

Chaperones, Mrs. Wayne Seiffert, Mrs. Bill Rummel, Wayne Seiffert, and Mrs. Louis Weiss, observe Louis Weiss as he putts through the Eiffel Tower.

Solemnity Marks Baccalaureate

Rev. John G. Deterding impresses on each graduate the meaning that humility should have in our life, now and forever.

To conclude his message, Rev. John G. Deterding asks both parents and graduates to join him in prayer.

Tension mounts as the Graduates prepare to march into the High School gym for Baccalaureate services.

Baccalaureate services were held June 5 in the Frankenth High School gymnasium for the graduating class of '66. Rev. John G. Deterding officiated the 4:00 p.m. service. His address was entitled "Graduation With Humility."

Commencement Creates Mixed Feelings

Because of inclement weather, the 1966 graduation exercises were held in the Frankenmuth gymnasium. Ninety-one seniors and their guest were addressed by Michigan Representative James Harvey. Diplomas were handed out by Walter Frahm, president of the Board of Education. Each senior received a long-stemmed red rose as compliments of the Junior Class. Scholarships were then awarded by Homer Stinchcombe, Director of Guidance.

Included in the graduation exercises was a tribute to Lorenz C. List for his forty years of service on the Frankenmuth School District Board of Education. The Frankenmuth Elementary School was renamed in his honor.

Board of Education President, Walter Frahm, presents Lorenz C. List with a plaque proclaiming June 9, 1966 as Lorenz List Day. E. F. Rittmueller shows Mr. List his memory book of congratulatory letters with Mrs. List looking on.

Love was really in bloom at the 1966 Junior-Senior Prom as pretty young girls in long gowns paraded on the arms of handsome young men in tailored tuxedos. An always popular event, the prom is traditionally sponsored by the junior class for the outgoing seniors and was held at the Bavarian Inn this year.

Those who attended enjoyed a delicious buffet dinner and an amusing act put on by comedian Karrell Fox. The seniors received crisp new dollar bills from the Chamber of Commerce as a token of their graduation from high school. After the program the students and faculty danced to the music of the Collegiates.

President Bill Rustem presents the junior class advisors Wayne Seiffert, Helena Kaczynski, and Louis Weiss with gifts of appreciation for all the help they have given the class.

Karrell Fox, the comedian at the prom, tells the audience to quit laughing so that he can tell another joke.

Activity Marks Junior

Class Progress

Loyal supporters raise a frenzied cry of approval as their candidate appears to deliver his speech.

Success has accompanied the Class of '67 throughout this year beginning with their first activity, a dance after the first football game. At Homecoming, the Junior class float placed second and Joelynn Geyer represented the Juniors in the queen's court.

Under the direction of chairman Faye Bronner, the Krazy Karnival added needed revenue to the class treasury. For the third consecutive year, the Class of '67 captured the Krazy Karnival Queen Crown. Nancy Voorheis, this years queen, shared the throne with another Junior Steve List who was king.

The money collected from the Karnival and other activities was used to finance the Junior-Senior Prom, the annual dinner dance put on for the Seniors by the Juniors.

JUNIOR CLASS OFFICERS: Ann Bender, secretary, Mary Zehnder, treasurer, Bill Rustem, president, and Randy Irvine, vice-president.

The opposition shows equal enthusiasm and riotous support for their favorite.

One hundred twenty students compose the class of 1968. The sophomores took first place with their float, "Think Big, Think Victory" at the Homecoming ceremonies. They also sponsored the dance that evening.

Representing the class in Student Council were Bob Baker, John Simon, Linda Parlbert, and Kris Muehlfeld.

Freshman Class is Largest Ever

After spending their first year at Frankenmuth High School adjusting to a new curriculum, the class of 1969 plans more active participation in the next three years.

The freshmen Homecoming float with the theme "DeFeet the Red Hawks" took third place. In athletic activities, freshmen showed fine prospects for the future.

Elected by the class to represent it in the Student Council this year were Susan Schaefer, Jill Thompson, Lauren Rustem, Mike Reif, and Bill Reindel.

Varsity Football Team

As an example of the speed which the Eagles possessed, Steve List races down the field with a Sandusky pursuer close behind.

For the first time since 1958, the Eagles finished their varsity football season with an astounding eight win, no loss record while totaling an unmatched 266 points against 13 allowed to their opponents. Not only did the team rate as Thumb B Conference Champion, but they also earned second place for the state in the class C-D grouping. Ken Weiss was voted most valuable player and Bob Zeilinger was chosen as co-captain with Ken.

Terry Weiss' hard-earned touch-down resulted in this pile-up.

Tim Irvine gains valuable yardage in this action against Michigan Lutheran Seminary. However, his efforts might be in vain, depending on the alert referee's call.

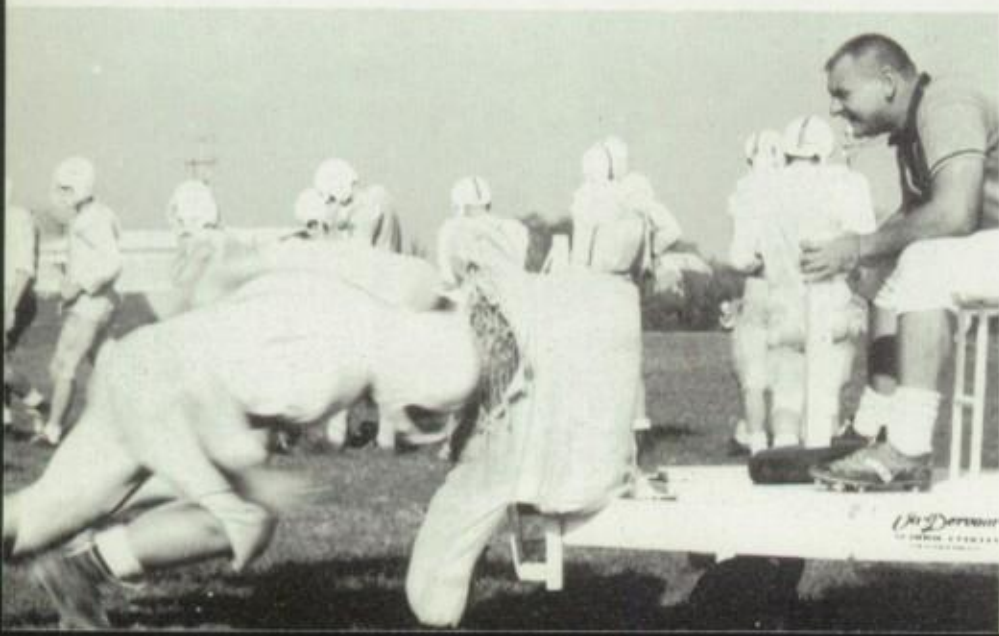

A Salute to a Coach...

HAROLD S. KACZYNSKI

Coach Harold Kaczynski, long known for his ability to produce winning football teams, has consistently throughout his ten-year coaching career at Frankenmuth helped attain commendable records on the gridiron. Between 1956 and 1958, the Eagles never lost a single game and from 1960 until 1965, four first-place Saginaw Area positions were reached. In 1962, Coach Kaczynski was named Coach-of-the-Year. After graduating from Flint Central in 1940, Coach spent three years in the Air Force with active duty in the Pacific. Following this, he played football at Central Michigan University for the late Ron Finch. Before coming to Frankenmuth, he spent two years at White Cloud and two at Belding.

Training football players find that Coach Kaczynski believes the old adage—"practice makes perfect."

Proudly the football team lifts Coach Mr. "K" to their shoulders after the conference championship victory against Caro.

One of the many duties of a track coach is taking times of the runners or hurdlers. In this case, Coach Kaczynski's skeptical look shows slight disapproval of the times he is taking.

Varsity is Their Goal...

Following in the steps of their senior counterparts, the Junior Varsity football team set a record nearly as impressive as that of the Varsity's. With the fine coaching of Warren Wilson, the team won all of their games except one, which was tied. The J.V.'s proved that all-out effort and co-operation make a good ball team.

The Queen-Kathy

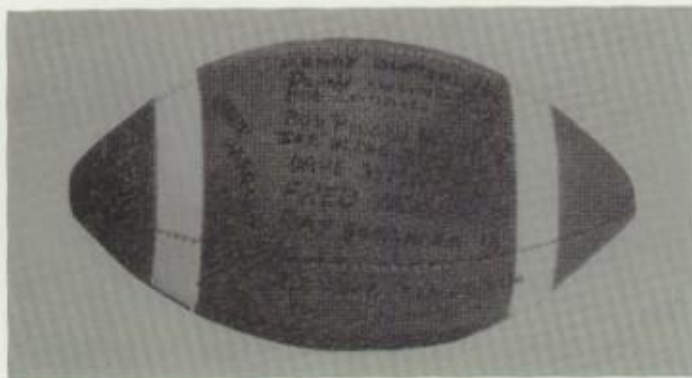

Frankenmuth High School's Homecoming Queen—Kathy Bernthal.

For the first time in the history of Frankenmuth High School, the Homecoming Court consisted of girls from each of the four grades. Kathy Bernthal, a senior was chosen queen by a committee of faculty members, community representatives, and Student Council members after she had been elected as one of the top five by the senior class.

The other four girls, dubbed representatives of their respective classes and chosen by them, were Linda Bierlein, freshman, Ruth Bauer, sophomore, Joelynn Geyer, junior, and Sandy Waack, senior, runner-up.

Surrounding Queen Kathy are representatives Linda Bierlein, Ruth Bauer, Joelynn Geyer, and Sandy Waack.

Co-captains Bob Zeilinger and Ken Weiss presented this football autographed by the team members to Kathy at the dance held after the game.

Floats Predominate

Homecoming 1965 was opened with a program by the Frankenmuth High School Marching Band and a parade of the four class floats.

Halftime ceremonies began with the announcement of the sophomore's winning float. A pomm-pomm routine under the black lights was performed by four varsity cheerleaders accompanied by the band. The parade of the Queen's Court followed and finally the moment of the crowning arrived. The announcement of Kathy Bernthal as Homecoming Queen was received with cheers and applause from the crowd.

Capturing first place is the sophomores' float with the theme "Think Big! Think Victory!"

An Eagle fires the cannon of victory and a football hurdles over the Frankenmuth goal post in the junior class float which placed second.

An Eagle executioner using a guillotine on a Cass City Red Hawk is displayed by the freshman float.

"Bow to the Victors" was the senior float theme. It pictured the bowing of a Cass City player to the Eagle king, with servants in attendance.

Varsity Basketeers Have

During the last conference game of the season Bob Piesko and Ken Weiss block a Vassar player's shot while Terry Weiss and another Vassar opponent look on.

As a follow-up for the successful season of football, the varsity basketball squad combined height, co-ordination, speed and skill to its best advantage in producing a well balanced team. The results of this year's court play certainly showed the Eagles to be a superior team which no underdog could upset. Out of sixteen games of non-tournament action, not one contest was lost. Under the combined efforts of Coach Warren Wilson and his team members, the basketball season turned out to be surely one of the best in the history of the school.

Tournaments Highlight of Year

Pow! Zowie! Crunch! Eagles "Batman," Bob Piesko and "Robin," Bob Zeilinger scramble for a loose ball during the regional game against Sebawaing.

To the approving shouts of the Frankenmuth crowd Ken Weiss scores for two more points during the first game of the regionals.

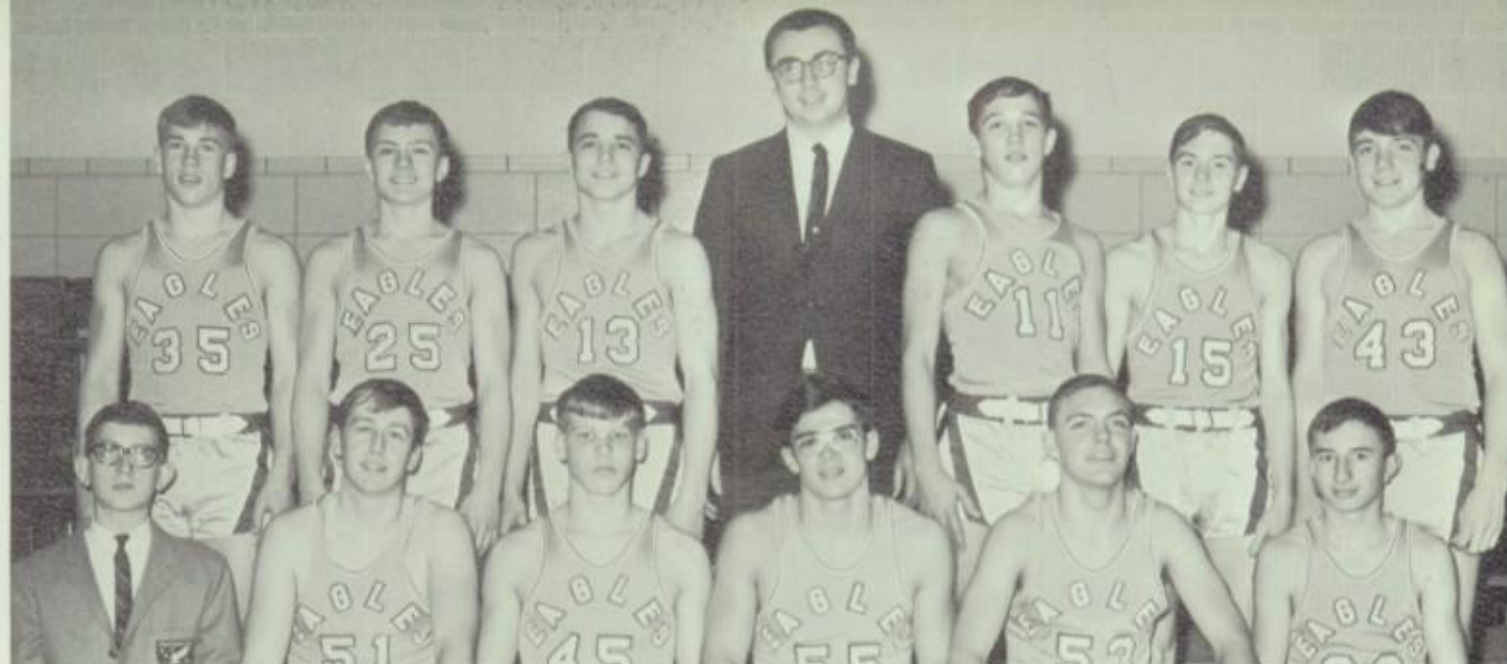

With hopes high, the Eagles entered the tournaments by competing against St. Charles and then North Branch at Montrose High School. After winning the district title, action shifted to the Bay City Central gym and the play become rougher as the crowds grew larger. By downing Breckenridge and Sebawaing, only St. Peter and Paul of Saginaw stood in the way of the regional championship. This, however, was unfortunately the end of the long, victorious flight of the Eagles and of a thrilling season.

Bob Zeilinger displays his perfect form to a dismayed Sebawaing player as Ken Weiss and Bob Piesko rush in for the possible rebound.

Honors are given to Bob Piesko, Ken Weiss, and Ike Bleke by Varsity basketball coach, Warren Wilson, for their outstanding performances in basketball.

Youthful Teams

Hold Promise

The Junior Varsity and freshman basketball teams, although not finishing their seasons successfully in terms of wins, did meet stiff competition and gained the satisfaction of playing their hardest. The Junior Varsity won eight of its sixteen games and lost eight. The freshman team contended with squads from schools larger than Frankenmuth and it enjoyed beating Vassar twice.

Cheerleaders Heard

Strong and Clear

This year's cheerleading squad came up with something new to aid Frankenmuth spectators give their much-appreciated yells. The girls, with help from their advisor, Mrs. Barrett, constructed an Eagle's head of paper mache and created "Perky", the school's first mascot.

"Perky", Suzanne Leidel, made its debut at a pep rally before the last home game of the season and in the words of captain Janice Hartman, ". . . really helped to pep up the crowd and spark our team to victory!"

Supporting the Junior Varsity players at each of their games this year were cheerleaders Kay Hegenauer, Wendy Waack, Joelynn Geyer, and Barbara Rupprecht.

Perched on the ladder of victory are Varsity cheerleaders Nancy Voorheis, Sandy Waack, Janice Hartman, captain, Joan Bauer, Pat Reif, and "Perky" Suzanne Leidel.

Ellen Allardyce seems to be mixing modern dance with a spirited volleyball game at intramurals.

More students participated in intramurals this year than ever before. The girls, under the guidance of Sharon Barrett played in volleyball, bowling, and touch football, while the boys played basketball with Harold Kaczynski and James Weber as referees.

Slamming the kickball for another hit is Sheila Gilbert while teammates, Jill Thompson and Gloria Uebler smile approval. However, the opposition in the form of catcher Sandy Travis doesn't look too worried; she has confidence in the ability of her fielders.

Interclass Play is Competitive

"It's a toss-up!" Gloria Uebler, Sheila Gilbert, Gail Reithmeier, Diane Haubenstricker, and Jonalyn Reindel await the outcome of this action in girls' intramurals.

Poles, Hurdles, Bars, and Skill

With the same outstanding athletes who helped make the football and basketball seasons successful, the track team ended its season by capturing the first Thumb B track crown Frankenmuth High has seen in its entire history. The Eagles also won the Class C regional championship. First places in the Thumb B meet were won in the long jump, the 880-yard relay, the 120-yard high hurdles, and the 440-yard dash events. Dwight Bleke was chosen most valuable player and co-captains were Ken Weiss and Bob Piesko.

Swift Steve List clears the low hurdles with perfect form during a Frankenmuth trackmeet and Tim Irvine presents an unusual pose as he dives over the bar in the pole vault.

Trackmen Bob Piesko and Don Kaczynski display their form in two of many track events. Bob has just leaped in the running broad jump while Don clears the bar in the high jump.

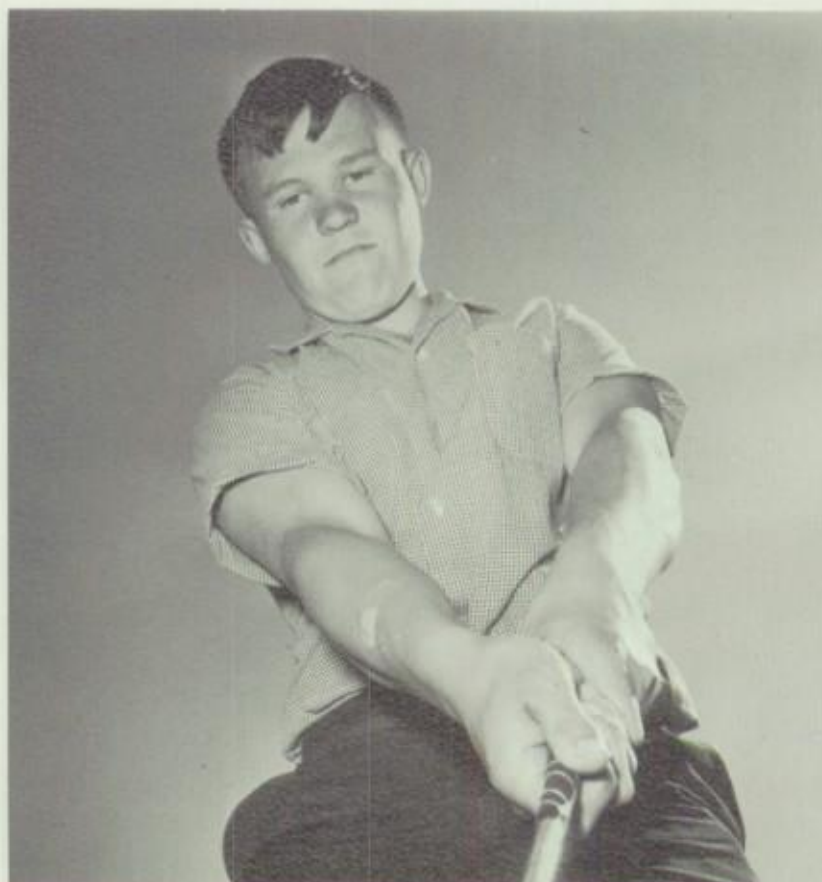

Golf Popularity Grows

Only in its second season of organized golfing, Frankenmuth High School, under the fine coaching of Wayne Seiffert, has done very well by winning nine and losing just five of its regular conference golf meets taking a third place. After the conference games the golf team participated in the Regional Golf Meet, finishing in tenth place. Voted as most valuable player by his teammates and attaining a good score of thirty-eight was William Bradford.

Getting in some last minute practice before a match is golfer Brian Ferguson.

"Take Me Out

A Frankenmuth slugger shows a winning form in awaiting the next pitch as the outfielders attempt to predict the landing spot of the up-coming hit.

Although failing to gain the championship as it did last year, Frankenmuth ended second in the Thumb B Conference after losing one game against Cass City. Al Poelett had the highest batting average of the season with .386. Captain of the team was Mark Marcet and most valuable player, Terry Weiss.

Ending a mixed season of four wins and four losses, the Junior Varsity Baseball team gained much practice and sportsmanship during the season. Yearbook Staff Writes Finis, Checking picture proofs, Kathy Braeutigam, Ruth Abraham, Reinie Frank, and Jean List select the best ones for use in the yearbook.

A yearbook serves five purposes: a memory book, a history book, a reference book, a medium between the school and community, and an opportunity for students participation in publications. Year-round work goes into producing a yearbook with planning, drawing, taking pictures, writing, fitting pictures, typing, and producing the final pages are typical of yearbook meetings. Under the direction of Mrs. Margret Willis, the staff has worked hard and long in its attempt to picture the action of the entire school year. It sincerely hopes it has achieved this goal.

as Year Comes to a Close

Sorting out the accumulation of books, papers, and junk that gathers in each locker is one of the final tasks of the school year.

Students loaded down with notebooks and papers hurry home on the last day of school, full of gay anticipation of the summer ahead.

"It was a very good year..." On June 7 the 425 students of Frankenmuth High School gathered their belongings and left with the new knowledge gained. The activities of the past year were over and packed away for the summer, but the memories of the joy and work involved still live in the hearts of most students. Another chapter in the history of Frankenmuth High is complete.

An empty hall and thousands of memories are all that are left of an eventful, hectic, happy, fruitful school year.
